

MA in Multicultural Church in Practice

Do you want to grow in your understanding and be better equipped for ministry in a multicultural church context? Do you want to think through how to lead and minister effectively to a congregation made up of people from a diverse range of cultures?

The All Nations MA in Multicultural Church in Practice is suitable for people involved in ministry in a multicultural church, or people seeking to move towards more culturally sensitive and appropriate forms of church and worship in multicultural contexts.

The course will provide you with:

- an understanding of how the multicultural context influences forms of ministry, and the skills required to reflect on this theologically
- an analysis of how this context shapes the mission of a local multicultural congregation

- an exploration of the challenges, opportunities and models of leadership necessary in a multicultural context
- the skills required to explore how local art forms of the various cultures represented can be used to shape worship and liturgy appropriate for a multicultural context
- an in-depth understanding of a relevant topic of specific interest to you through your dissertation (practice-based or written options available)
