Cross-cutting Issues:

These are included, explicitly or implicitly, across the programme as a whole:

- Recognition of power differentials (including due to race, gender, disability, finance, and language), and wider issues of marginalisation
- Decolonisation: recognition of the links between mission and colonisation and pro-actively addressing on-going practices and issues that perpetuate colonial attitudes and power inequalities in mission thinking and practice
- Ecology / environmental concerns, recognising the impact of the global environmental crisis on all aspects of people's lives
- Recognition of the polycentric and polyphonic nature of mission: the recognition that mission is now from everywhere to everywhere and ensuring those perspectives and emphasis are given to different global voices
- Interculturality: The need to move away from multiculturalism, where different cultures co-exist but one culture tends to be dominant, towards interculturality. In intercultural communities there is a deep understanding and respect for all cultures, and communication focuses on the mutual exchange of ideas and cultural norms and the development of deep relationships resulting in no one being left unchanged because everyone learns from one another and grows together.
